
Case Western Reserve University Medical School To Join the Within3 Online Community

CLEVELAND, Sept. 19 /PRNewswire/ -- Within3 and Case Western Reserve University Medical School today announced a partnership in which the Medical School faculty will join Within3's online healthcare community.

Within3, with thousands of current community members, is the fastest growing, international, interdisciplinary community for health care professionals online. The Within3 platform allows its users to more proactively and efficiently utilize their networks of trusted colleagues and group affiliations. Offering access to multiple services such as research, medical news, clinical trials, information exchange, and more, Within3 enables members to develop their online identity, establish and strengthen professional relationships, find and filter information, and identify opportunities for professional development and innovation in their field. For organizations, Within3 is a vehicle to engage communities of physicians to further organizational goals and strengthen relationships.

Within3's CEO Lance Hill said, "We have tremendous respect for Case Western Reserve University's contribution to the medical community and are delighted to be making this announcement. It validates the value that Within3 can bring to educational organizations and non-profit institutions. The Within3 platform will give the faculty of the School of Medicine the ability to grow and manage their professional relationships, collaborate with the global medical community, and uniquely interact with trusted peers on clinical trials, research, referrals, and other career-related information."

Pamela Davis, M.D., Ph.D, School of Medicine dean and vice president said, "At Case Western Reserve University, we consistently endeavor to remain at the forefront of innovation in the medical field. We believe that Within3 will be highly valued by our faculty and will contribute to their ability to connect significantly with other researchers across the globe."

Case Western Reserve University joins Within3 partners such as Fox Chase Cancer Center, Harbor-UCLA Medical Center, MetroHealth Medical Center, PrometeoNetwork, Tata Memorial Cancer Center, and other premier medical organizations. By creating a presence in the Within3 community, professional organizations can use community-driven technologies to offer their members compelling value.

Within3 fuses social network science and proprietary Internet technology to enable a valuable online network for physicians, researchers and medical organizations worldwide (<http://www.within3.com>). Within3 is based in Cleveland, Ohio and is a Portfolio Company of BioEnterprise, a non-profit business accelerator chartered by the Cleveland Clinic, Case Western Reserve University, University Hospitals, and Summa Health Care.
