

BioEnterprise Fact Sheet

A Leader in Growing BioScience Companies

BioEnterprise is a business formation, recruitment and acceleration nonprofit designed to grow healthcare companies and commercialize bioscience technologies. Based in Cleveland, BioEnterprise's founders and partners are Case Western Reserve University, Cleveland Clinic and University Hospitals. The initiative comprises the collective activities of BioEnterprise and its partners' commercialization offices.

BioEnterprise portfolio companies include medical devices, biopharmaceutical and healthcare software and services/health IT firms. Each year, BioEnterprise focuses on a select number of companies and employs BioEnterprise and partner resources to help those companies achieve greater levels of business success.

We offer bioscience companies:

- Access to bioscience venture capital, private equity and grant funding opportunities
- Privileged relationships with world-class research and clinical institutions
- Experienced bioscience management guidance
- A network of technical services, equipment, professional service providers and flexible development space
- Business development and alliance support for strategic partnerships
- Strategic marketing and communications guidance

With our partners, we have:

- Created, recruited and accelerated more than 350 companies
- Helped companies raise more than $2 billion in funding
- Assisted in 540+ technology transfer deals concluded with industry partners
- Evaluated 1,900+ company opportunities and 3,400 invention disclosures
- Expanded or relocated 60+ biomedical companies to Cleveland

We convene industry transforming initiatives:

BioEnterprise led the creation of the Cleveland Health-Tech Corridor, collaborated in the formation of the Global Center for Health Innovation, facilitated the Philips-University Hospitals Global Center for Imaging, convened the Health IT in the CLE initiative and has taken the lead in The Medical Capital Initiative.
